

How is your business going to make the most of the new 'Super Deduction' Tax scheme announced in the Spring Budget?

A new 'super-deduction scheme' which is in effect an extension of the Annual Investment Allowance (AIA) has been introduced.

From 1 April 2021 until 31 March 2023, businesses investing in qualifying assets will benefit from up to 130% first-year capital allowance.

This allows businesses to deduct the full value of qualifying assets from profits before tax.

The full tax relief is received in the year assets are purchased rather than over several years, therefore reducing your tax liability.

This measure will provide significantly faster tax relief for qualifying investments up to £1 million, helping businesses to invest and grow.

For example under the new rules: If your taxable profits pre-investments are £200,000, and you invest £100,000 in qualifying new plant or machinery, you will be entitled to claim in that year a capital allowance of £130,000, a saving of £112,000 compared to current rules.* The scheme works alongside a number of finance options including Hire Purchase.

The extension in AIA will apply to qualifying expenditure on equipment, machinery and other assets a business needs from 1 April 2021 (dependent on a businesses chargeable period).
